Robbed The Grave.

A startling incident, is narrated by John Oliver, of Philadelphia, as follows: "I was in an awful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite, growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Then I was advised to use Electric Bitters; to my great joy, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks and am now a well man. I know they robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents, guaranteed, at Oberdorfer's drug store.

Good Fat Jobs.

The office of magistrate in Bourbon county in point of salary is not to be sneezed at, if you will read over the following figures. The salaries seem to be on a continual increase, and if not cut down in some way the office of magistrate will soon be more than a fat job. It seems that all you have to do is to look wise and draw your $3.00 per day.

The public records, kept at the County Clerk's office, show that during the term of 1898 to 1901, inclusive, covering four years, the following amounts were drawn:

BOURBON MAGISTRATES 1898-1901.
A. O. Ball $ 771.50
J. T. Barlow 351.00
John Howard 390.00
J. B. DeJarnett 261.00
E. P. Claybrook 467.00
H. O. Smith 324.00
P. S. See 75.00
R. J. Neely 728.50
S. L. Weathers 96.00
T. P. Woods 571.33
J. W. Thomas, Jr.

Total (for 4 years) $4,128.33
NOTE.—Squires Claybrook, Neely and Woods only served part of a term, and were succeeded by Squires DeJarnett, Woods and Thomas, respectively.

The public records also show that during the period from January 1, 1902, till September 26, 1904 (two years and nine months), the following sums were paid to the Magistrates:

BOURBON MAGISTRATES, 1902-1904.
A. O. Ball (Jan. 3, 1902, till July 29, 1904), $1,923.50
J. W. Thomas, Jr. (Jan. 3, 1902, till Jan. 31, 1904), 1,343.67
J. B. DeJarnett (May 17, 1902, till Sept. 1, 1904), 1,313.00
L. O. Anderson (Feb. 3, 1902, till Oct. 6, 1904), 717.00
J. T. Barlow (Jan. 6, 1902, till Aug. 1, 1904), 711.00
H. T. Ingram (Apr. 8, 1902, till Sept. 1, 1904), 619.00
J. H. Hopkins (Jan. 9, 1902, till Sept. 16, 1904), 600.00
J. P. Howell (Apr. 1, 1902, till Sept. 5, 1904), 585.00

Total (for 2 years and 9 months) $7,812.17

To the $7,812.17 there is yet to be added $1,200, or $400 each for the Court-house Building Committee (composed of Squires Ball, DeJarnett and Thomas), for the year 1904, as the Magistrates adjourned their recent meeting without making these allowances. This will bring the total for 2 years and 9 months to $9,012.17—with other amounts for claims not yet presented.

Can Be Grown In Kentucky.

That rice can be grown in Kentucky is proven by an experiment made by C. C. Cummins, of Lamasco, Lyon county. He visited in Texas a year ago, and brought home some seed of the rice Texans are now growing extensively. Last May he planted some of the seed and has watered the plants since they were about four inches high. Hardly a one of them is under four feet high, and one measures four feet and eight inches. Some of the heads are well developed. Mr. Cummins feels sure that they would be ripe now had he planted a month earlier.

A Diamond Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hocker, of Lexington celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of their marriage, yesterday afternoon with an informal reception at the home of President and Mrs. Burris A. Jenkins, in Lexington. Few couples live to enjoy such a privilege, the instances of diamond wedding anniversary being extremely rare.

A Disappointment.

The sale of Angus cattle at the Royal Cattle Show at Kansas City last week was rather disappointing to the Angus breeders. Thirty-six females averaged $122.06, and fourteen bulls averaged $92.85. The top price was $285, paid for the cow Delia 14th.

A Continual Strain.

Many men and women are constantly subjected to what they commonly term "a continual strain" because of some financial or family trouble. It wears and distresses them both mentally and physically, affecting their nerves badly and bringing on liver and kidney ailments, with the attendant evils of constipation, loss of appetite, sleeplessness, low vitality and despondency. They cannot, as a rule, get rid of this "continual strain," but they can remedy its health destroying effects by taking frequent doses of Green's August Flower. It tones up the liver, stimulates the kidneys, insures healthy bodily functions, gives vim and spirit to one's whole being, and eventually dispels the physical or mental distress caused by that "continual strain." Trial bottle of August Flower, 50c; regular size, 75c. At all druggists.—W. T. Brooks.

Healthy Mothers.

Mothers should always keep in good bodily health. They owe it to their children. Yet it is no unusual sight to see a mother, with babe in arms, coughing violently and exhibiting all the symptoms of a consumptive tendency. And why should this dangerous condition exist, dangerous alike to mother and child, when Dr. Boesche's German Syrup would put a stop to it at once? No mother should be without this old and tried remedy in the house—for its timely use will promptly cure any lung, throat or bronchial trouble in herself or her children. The worst cough or cold can be speedily cured by German Syrup; so can hoarseness and congestion of the bronchial tubes. It makes expectoration easy, and gives instant relief and refreshing rest to the cough-racked consumptive. New trial bottles, 50c; large size 75c. At all druggists.—W. T. Brooks.

IDEAL WORSE THAN SHATTERED

"And have you an ideal man, Miss Glady?"
"I had an ideal, but he—"
"Your ideal has been shattered."
"Not exactly shattered, but he is broke."—Rochester Times-Democrat.

Like the Flea.
The woman who travels all around is very much like a flea;
She doesn't eat in one place, but takes
A bite where she happens to be.
—Yonkers Statesman.

Poor Place for Poets.
Poet—I'm going to leave this offensively practical country. It's no place for poets.
Friend—What's happened?
Poet—Yesterday I visited all the newspaper offices I could find in a suburban town, and at last succeeded in persuading an editor to take a poem at 50 cents. Well, I'd hardly reached the curbstone before I was arrested by the authorities for peddling goods without a license.—N. Y. Weekly.

The City's Pitfalls.
Idle Tim—Phew! Never had such a narrow escape in all the years I've been trampin'. These 'ere big cities is full o' pitfalls for the unwary.
Tattered Tom—What happened ye?
Idle Tom—I went into that big buildin', to tell me tale of woe, and where d'ye think I found meself? It was an employment office—an' 20 different persons offered me work afore I could get out.—N. Y. Weekly.

Unexpected.
The master was explaining the meaning of the word "recuperate."
"Now, Willie," he said, "if your father worked hard all day he would be tired and worn out, wouldn't he?"
"Yess'r."
"Then when evening comes, and his work is over for the day, what does he do?"
"That's what mother wants to know,"—Cassell's Saturday Journal.

Passing of the Pastor.
She had a stall at the bazar
And mused: "What will the pastor buy?"
With eyes that seemed to gaze afar
The cashless pastor passed her by.
—Judge.

ALAS, TOO TRUE.
Teacher—Johnnie, name a bird that is now extinct.
Johnnie—Our canary. The cat exterminated him.—St. Louis Republic.

To Settle a Bet.
"Why, I gave you a piece of cake yesterday," said the young housekeeper.
"Yes, ma'am," replied Weary Willie, "but I want another chunk to settle a bet."
"To settle a bet?"
"Yes, ma'am. I told me partner out dore dat it was cake, but he says it's a hunk o' concrete."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

A Delicate Morsel.
A little friend of mine said to his mother one day: "Mamma, how fat Amelia has grown."
"Yes," said his mother; "but don't say 'fat,' dear; say 'stout.'"
At the dinner table the next day my little friend was asked if he would have some lean meat.
"No, thank you," said he, "I'll take some stout meat."—Little Chronicle.

Calling It.
"Why is Miss Charity down on the editor?"
"Why, he wrote that whenever a poor family needed help it found her a friend indeed!"
"Oh, yes, and the compositor made it 'friend indeed.'"
—Houston Post.

A Fine Angler.
Madge—In what way is she such a clever girl?
Marjorie—Well, she always knows how many times she can safely refuse a fellow's proposal without losing him altogether.—Judge.

Proof Positive.
Tommy—Ma, I guess pa knew what he was talking about the other day when he said Mr. Sniffkins was an old heathen and—
Ma—Why, Tommy! Mr. Sniffkins is one of the vestrymen of the church.
Tommy—I know, but the minister told us in Sunday school to-day that there'd be a collection for the heathen, and, sure enough, old Sniffkins came with a basket and took my penny.—Philadelphia Press.

Had Not Bothered Him.
Young Husband (laying down a comic paper)—All this tomfoolery about women's extravagance makes me tired. We have been married two months, and you haven't asked me for a cent.
Young Wife—Of course not. What would be the use of bothering you for every little thing I want, when it's so much easier to have the things charged.—N. Y. Weekly.

Nothing to Retract.
Mrs. Countershop (with an injured air)—You told me before we were married that you were the highest salaried clerk in the store.
Mr. Countershop (equally injured)—So I am. I'm two inches and a half higher than any other salaried clerk in the whole establishment. If you chose to imagine a hyphen between those two words, I'm not to blame for it, am I?—Chicago Tribune.

TAKE A LONG TIME.
Cholly—But in time you might learn to love me.
Pet—Ah! Life is too short.—Ally Sloper.

Bank That Didn't Fail.
In a strenuous fare bank
His all he trusted;
The bank's running still—
But he is busted.
—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A Good Match.
Old Lady—Then you are not married?
Modern Miss—No, indeed. I am one of the bachelor girls you hear about so much nowadays—have a profession, rooms of my own, and dine at the club, you know.
Old Lady—Ah, I see. You must let me introduce you to my dear son, who lives with me. He is one of the old maid men, you know.—N. Y. Weekly.

Cause and Effect.
She—Your friend Stillman has such a sad, far-away look. I wonder why?
He—About two years ago he fell in love with a beautiful society belle, and—
She (interrupting)—Ah, the same old story. She handed him the frigid mitt.
He—No, on the contrary, she took pity on herself and married him.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Couldn't Fool Her.
Mrs. Boardman—What did those pies taste like which we had for dinner?
Mr. Boardman—Sawdust.
"Exactly! That accounts for it! I heard the boarding-house woman tell her husband to order some kindling wood, as she wanted to make some pies, for dinner."—Yonkers Statesman.

A Reliable Guest.
Proprietor—Seems to me you were rather careless to give the best room in the house to an utter stranger without baggage.
Hotel Clerk—Oh, he's all right. He's worth a million at least. He's here as defendant in a suit for breach of promise—damages to the plaintiff's injured heart, $200,000.—N. Y. Weekly.

By the Sad Sea.
The landlord of the Coral Inn was showing the visitors through the building.
"And our sun parlors," he said, proudly, "are . . . any disease."
"How about love?" asked the visitors.
"Oh, we have moon parlors for that, you know."—Waikiki Sentinel.

Facing a Problem.
"Have you ever thought about Johnny's future career?" asked the boy's teacher. "He has decided talent as an elocutionist."
"I know it," replied Mr. Upjohn, "and I'm blest if I can decide whether I ought to develop it or try to whip it out of him."—Chicago Tribune.

Won't Let Him Alone.
She—You know it's not well for man to be alone.
He—No; it's not well for women to be man alone, I suppose you think.—Yonkers Statesman.

Constipation! Is Yours of Long Standing?

Never mind, we take all the chances—your money refunded if a cure is not effected.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

We are authorized to announce Lee R. Penn as a candidate for Magistrate from Clintonville precinct, subject to the action of the Democratic primary, November 15.

Parker And Bryan On The Philippines.

Judge Parker and Mr. Bryan are agreed on the importance of the Philippine question. Mr. Bryan predicted four years ago that imperialism was a menace that would cost this country dear in money and men. He warned the people against the militarism that demanded the expenditure of $637,000,000 and the practically enslavement of 7,000,000 Christian Filipinos, who are entitled to their freedom. He has lived to see his dreaded prophecy fulfilled to the letter. This year he is again waging war against the republicans for their course in the Philippines.

Judge Parker's address on the subject at Esopus, on Saturday last, was a most earnest plea for a return to the old, safe paths, marked out by the constitution and walked in by our fathers. It was a terrific arraignment of the imperialistic policy of Roosevelt and his party. His utterances were clear and strong, impassioned by the sincerity of his conviction, and filled with honest indignation over the wrongs of the Filipinos. No word that Judge Parker has spoken in this campaign has given such an insight into his resolute, admirable character, as this plea for justice to the little brown men on the other side of the world.

Free Lunch.

Commencing to-night I will have for lunch, pigs feet, hot sauer kraut, country boiled sliced ham, etc. The best of draught and bottled beers.

2t TONY PEEFFER.

Those who complained of listlessness in the conduct of the National Campaign have no right to enter an objection now. There never was a more thorough organization in a Presidential contest. Every Committeeman's work is laid out for him, and there is no sign of shirking anywhere. Judge Parker is in constant touch with headquarters. Chairman Taggart is alive to the situation in the doubtful States. His practical knowledge of politics is of inestimable value to the party. He has made no blunders. With the skill of a Japanese General he has found the weak spots in the enemies ranks, and when it has been necessary he has changed the seemingly impregnable heights, or has flanked them and driven them out of entrenched positions.

SPECIAL SALE CONTINUED.—We have decided to continue our special sale for several days more, in order to entirely clean up our stock to make room for Fall and Winter shoes. If you want shoes at a bargain, call now.

FREEMAN & FREEMAN.

THE Judicial temperament is all right on the Bench or in the White House, but it can be dispensed with in a candidate for the Presidency. Judge Parker has awakened to that fact. He is striking straight from the shoulder. His address on the Philippines was a masterful discussion of that all important question, embracing as it does the vital problem of maintaining foreign colonies, and denying to a conquered people their independence. The Judge lacks neither vigor nor courage. His views on these problems are of surpassing interest and his manner of expressing them gives proof that he will bring to the solution of them all the qualities of heart and brain so necessary in a Chief Executive.

FRESH MEATS.—My customers tell me every day that my fresh meats are the best they ever ate. Give me a trial and I will please you. Both 'phones.

(1f) H. T. ESTES,
Opposite Hotel Windsor.

It would be a heart warming thing to see the Democrats roll up a majority of 60,000 in Kentucky, but it is just as well to be prepared for from 25,000 to 30,000, and the way to insure that is to get out and work without ceasing. The other fellow is not blowing much, but he is organizing in every precinct, attending secret meetings, canvassing the doubtful vote, and in every other way giving help to his party. It is better to be sure than sorry.

FOR SALE.—Organ good as new, can be bought at a bargain. Apply at the News office. 18-1f

It is not easy to get excited over the tariff, but when the head of every family in Kentucky realizes that he digs down in his pocket every year for $94 which goes to the protected trusts, he may sit up and take a little notice. If a burglar were to relieve him of one-tenth of the sum he would set up a howl for the police that could be heard in the remotest regions of the frozen North, even overtaking Kuro-patkin, the speed marvel. But say "tariff!" to him and he will go to sleep.

If Roosevelt's slanders as a historian were not uttered against the dead men, who in their lifetime were the leaders of their party and the pride of their sections, he would be sued for slander in every state in the Union. He has permitted none to escape his calumny. A bitterer or a more unfair pen has never been wielded by a man who laid claim to the name of historian.

LOWER THAN EVER.—We are selling and putting on wall paper at lower prices than ever before. Try us.

J. T. HINTON.

This Campaign will settle all Republican claims to Kentucky. Governor Beckham redeemed last year with 27,000 majority and this year the democrats will try and increase that. All future Republican nominations in this State will be made solely with Federal offices in view as a salve for their wounds.

Too weeks from to-day and the battle will be over. There is no time to waste. Find out what your neighbor is going to do, and if he is out of line, try and show him the error of his way. A little missionary work at this time will save many a political soul from destruction.

Died Suddenly.

Mrs. Belle S. Morrow, widow of the late Col. Bob Morrow, formerly of this city, died suddenly in Chicago, Sunday night. Her remains will arrive here this (Tuesday) morning, on the 11 o'clock train, and proceed to the Paris cemetery for burial. She was an aunt of Mrs. W. T. Talbott and Mrs. Cordelia Parker, of this city.

A GOOD REMEDY.—Mrs. Dr. E. L. Stone has sold to Cox & Co., Manufacturing Chemists, of New York, the right to make "The Clay Scalp and Skin Food" for $2,000, with a royalty to be paid after three years.

It Was a Fast Game.

The base ball season was closed Sunday afternoon by a very fast game between Paris and the Y. M. I. team of Lexington in a tie, the score being 2 to 3 in the tenth inning, the game being called on account of darkness. It was professional ball playing from start to finish—Paris losing the game by errors of its manager, C. D. Lucas. A large crowd attended from here and the Interurban gave good service.

Murdered and Robbed.

John W. Burden, a farmer who had recently moved from Nicholas county to near Millersburg, was found early Saturday morning on porch about two miles from Millersburg in a terribly mangled condition, his skull being crushed in three places, from which he died at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Burden had been in the NEWS office Friday afternoon and left an advertisement trying to find his twelve-year-old son, who had run away from home about three months ago. After he returned to Millersburg it is claimed he began drinking, and was last seen just before midnight on Friday, in company with Will Howard, colored, and Wm. N. Clarke, white. The negro was suspected and arrested. After being locked up he confessed. The negro said that Clarke knocked Burden in the head and he himself robbed him of ten or twelve dollars. An iron rod which the negro was seen carrying when the three left a saloon, was found in his home under the bed. Howard says Clarke used this as his weapon. The negro is in jail here and Clarke is out under guard by order of County Judge Smith.

Clarke is a son of Chas. F. Clarke, one of the most prominent farmers in that section of the county. He came to Paris Saturday morning before his arrest with his brother, Chas. Clarke, Jr., and deeded to him 16 acres of land, for which he received $500. A few years ago young Clarke was the owner of about 300 acres of land, but a fast life has separated him from his little fortune. He was arrested in Paris.

Mr. Clarke is in no way related to the various Clarke families of Paris, however it is to be hoped that he will prove himself innocent of the crime of which he has been accused by the negro Howard, as his family is one of the most prominent in that vicinity.

At the Coroner's inquest in the county court room, yesterday, no new developments were brought out. The negro, Howard, however, contradicted himself several times and stated he did not see Clarke when he struck Burden, but that Clarke was standing over Burden's prostrate form when he, Howard, got over the fence. The verdict of the jury was that "Burden came to his death from blows struck by unknown party or parties."

The examining trial of the accused will be held this morning, at 10 o'clock, before Judge Smith.

Destructive Wind Storm.

A very destructive wind storm raged about four miles from Paris, about 6 o'clock, Friday evening. In fact, for awhile it looked a little squally in town. A "twin" tobacco barn, 120 by 120 feet, belonging to Mr. James Thompson, was blown down and across the Interurban track. The barn was filled with a fine crop of tobacco from 35 acres. It was dry and the timbers falling on it pulverized and broke it so that it will be unmarketable.

The total damage to Mr. Thompson is $8,500. He carried $4,000 insurance.

The interurban cars to Paris were caught on the upper side, but vehicles were telephoned for at Paris by the road and the passengers brought to town in prompt manner. The interurban people soon had 100 m on the ground from Lexington and by 9 o'clock the track was cleared of the barn and tobacco and a number of large trees that had fallen across it.

Sustained Fatal Injuries.

Mrs. James Fee, wife of the oldest merchant in Paris, died Saturday afternoon, about 2 o'clock, from injuries received by falling down the back steps that lead from the porch of her home to the yard. Mrs. Fee had been invalid for several years and a nurse attended her, and while every one was asleep she arose early Saturday morning, before day, and wandered to the back porch and fell down the steps to the yard, where she laid for some time in an unconscious condition until her pet dog discovered her plight and alarmed the neighborhood by running frantically about the yard and barking like mad. Her arm and thigh were broken as was one of her limbs in two places. Mrs. Fee was 84 years of age and a native of Ireland. She was highly respected and a most excellent woman. She is survived by her husband and one child, Mr. A. J. Fee.

Death of Mrs. Eliza J. Davis.

Mrs. Eliza J. Davis, aged 77 years, died at her home on pleasant street, Friday night, after a lingering illness. The deceased was the mother of J. W. Davis, John N. Davis and Miss Annie May Davis, all of this city. She was a devoted mother, and it was beautiful to see the love and devotion of her children in her last illness. Mrs. Davis was a most estimable woman, and for many years a consistent member of the Christian Church. Her funeral took place at her late residence Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, services conducted by Eld. Carey Morgan, assisted by Eld. J. S. Sweeney. The pall-bearers were J. J. McClintock, W. T. Talbott, Dr. E. L. Stevens, C. N. Fithian, A. J. Fee, J. Bruce Davis, Jno. F. Davis and J. Withers Davis.

SORGHUM.—Try some of that Sorghum Molasses at Wm. Sauer's and you are sure to go back after more. (25-26)

Received Hard Fall.

W. B. Woodford, one of our most prominent farmers, received a severe fall from his horse, Saturday, and was in an unconscious condition for several hours afterwards. He was on his horse driving some stock, among which was a vicious bull, on his farm when last seen by a servant and in a few moments afterwards the servant noticed the horse was riderless and upon investigation found Mr. Woodford standing on the ground unconscious with the bull standing over him. One of his stirrups was thrown over his saddle and it is supposed that the bull must have attacked his horse. Mr. Woodford is improving, but says he does not know how it happened. He is a brother of Hon. Hal Woodford, candidate for Representative.

Burglars Sunday Night.

The residence of Robt. Frank, on Pleasant street was entered by burglars Sunday night. The entrance was made through the kitchen window. They carried away with them all of Bob's winter clothes, his overcoat, suit and heavy underwear, which had just been unpacked for him to put on Sunday morning. Bob saw the burglar as he was going out of the window and took a shot at him as he was vaulting the back fence. No clew has yet been discovered and Bob has on a good case of shivers.

Court House Under Cover.

January & Connell, who have the contract to put the roofing on the new Court House are pushing the work to a finish. The house will be under cover by six o'clock to-night so as to protect it from the weather. The specifications called for a tile roof, but Mr. Gibson, the troublesome partner of Mr. Crawford, before severing his connection with the firm, claimed that the roof was so flat over the big court room that it would be impossible to keep it from leaking with the tile roofing. The firm from Dayton, O., employed by January & Connell, sent a representative here and he agreed with Gibson. The Dayton people then offered to put on this asphalt roofing at the same price and guarantee it for ten years. Architect Milburn then visited New York and Washington City to examine the new roofing and upon his return agreed to the change—pronouncing it the best. The roof now being put on is the best that can be found and January & Connell are seeing that it is put on right. This change talked about was made before Mr. Crawford took charge in person. These are the facts in the case and we predict that the old reliable firm of January & Connell will see that nothing but the very best of roofing goes on the new building.

Will Take the Stamp.

I will address the Democrats of Bourbon county in the interest of my candidacy for County Judge at the following times and places:

Flat Rock, Saturday, Oct. 29, 2 p. m.
Centerville Monday, Oct. 31, 2 p. m.

THE LILY.

A stainless Spirit loved you in a far, remembered day—
O, pure, light-jeweled altar, where the winds kneel down to pray!
And o'er dead blooms and life-red blooms I hear that Spirit say:

"Consider ye the lilies—
All kings, all crowns above,
For greater than all kingdoms
Is the Litaney of Love!"

I sought the artist-weavers o'er many a land and sea;
They decked my love from looms of light, all rich and radiantly,
But still the Spirit's voice thrilled through my glittering dreams to me:

"Consider ye the lilies—
The wealth of worlds above:
The only joy is loving—
The only wealth is Love!"

O, Lily of that lesson! In the wide world's dim Night!
Lead us where lives the Morning in ecstasy of Light!
Till Love shall kiss and crown us his own in Heaven's sight!

"Consider ye the lilies—
White dreams of Heaven above;
Great are the gifts of Heaven,
And the greatest still is Love!"

The Hermit

A Story of the Wilderness

CHAPTER XXXIV.—CONTINUED.

"Oh, you are not to be rid of me so easily," answered Angie, lightly, "and if you want to be, you can't, either. I wouldn't marry Martin or the best man that ever lived, and desert you now."

But Aunt Comfort only smiled again, serene in her faith of what must inevitably happen.

For a little while the two remained silent, each absorbed in her widely divergent line of reflection, while the tall clock ticked on, the evening breeze rustled the brown leaves about the house, and the fire burned low. At last Aunt Comfort, still smiling, began to doze, and Angie was alone with her thoughts.

And then back to the old days of her girlhood they sped in spite of all resolutions, and once again the old memories returned. They were only fond recollections now, for he who had inspired them had passed out of her life for good, and could not now be allowed admission again. He must never even know she retained them. Her path of duty was clear, and beside the good motherly soul who had been all in all to her so long—beside her and for her she must and would live until the patient hands were folded at last and the wrinkled face would smile no more.

It was a duty of love and gratitude, ten times stronger than all the silly impulses once inspired by Martin and now sought to be renewed by him. True he was manly and tender, and somehow, absent, now was nearer to her than when present. He had shown repentance for his old-time neglect which, after all, was not surprising; and had almost begged for tact for forgiveness and reinstatement in her favor. She recognized that to live alone and without a man's protection was not easy for any woman, and yet so she had resolved and for a reason that seemed sacred.

Then she fell to wondering what kept him so long in the wilderness and why it was that unique birch-bark letter, scrawled with a charred stick, had been sent in an envelope directed by some one else. She had opened it with eagerness, and tried again and again to decipher words impossible to read. It contained naught except what all might read without question, if they could, and yet no missive ever received by her had been valued more.

His movements and plans in life were not her concern, of course, and not likely to be. She had renounced him for good and all now, and if he returned and pleaded his love, as she imagined he might, it would avail not. Her resolve was made and final—and yet Martin absent was stronger than Martin present, and the old sweet illusion hard to eradicate.

There are turning points in life, when to choose the path of duty brings a heartache, and such a one now confronted Angie, yet she faltered not, and the gray head with its white cap and wrinkled face, now nodding just across the table, still seemed her shrine of duty.

And yet—and yet—
The fire had burned quite out—only one tiny coal still glowed among the white ashes, the tall clock kept saying, "Never—never—never," the night wind still rustled the dead leaves in the dooryard, and life to Angie seemed like the clock's solemn voice.

Suddenly Aunt Comfort woke up and looked at her companion.

"Why, Angie," she said, "you've been cryin'!"

CHAPTER XXXV.

A TROUBLED CONSCIENCE.

When Nezer saw the white-clad figure of David Curtis burst out of the house and vanish in the darkness with a yell of fear, his ingrained love of mischief received a keen but momentary satisfaction, followed by a sudden dread of consequences, and instead of continuing his ghost parade down the street, he sneaked away over the hills and hid his Scar Face disguise. Then he began to have troubled dreams and saw himself bound hand and foot and carried to Riverton, where the courthouse and jail were, then locked in a narrow cell, and twice he dreamed that he was standing on a scaffold with a noose about his neck. He began to grow thin and haggard, and as Aunt Comfort would call it, "wofully peaked."

And now ensued a most ludicrous game of cross-purposes, for there wasn't an ache or pain suggested by Aunt Comfort that he didn't have. The comedy was of short duration, however, for the chance to dose some one was consolation to Aunt Comfort, and she acted promptly.

"Stick out your tongue," she said to Nezer, and a red and healthy specimen shot out of his face.

"Nothin' the matter with yer stummick ez I kin see," she ejaculated, feeling of his hands, "n' no signs of fever. You say your head aches, n' back, n' legs, n' you sartainly ain't eatin' nat'rally. Do ye hev cold chillis up n' down yer spine?"

"Yessum," responded Nezer, eagerly.

"Feel dizzy?"

"All the time."

"Sick to yer stummick?"

"Yessum."

"Bad dreams, you say?"

"Yessum."

"Well, yer gittin' bilyus," returned Aunt Comfort, wiping her "specs" on her apron, adjusting them and pulling one of the invalid's eyelids down. "Let's see your tongue agin."

For a moment she scanned it, and then added, "You want a good dose of thorough-wort 'n' I guess I'll begin with lobelia," and she started for the attic.

"It's curus," she observed to Angie, after Nezer had swallowed his dose of lobelia tea without a murmur and hastened out of the kitchen, "I never saw that boy so willin' ter take medicine afore, n' yet he ain't got no 'signs, 'ceptin' loss of appetite 'n' a little yellin' round the eyes. Must be suthin' comin' on, though."

If there was, she took prompt, vigorous methods to head it off, however, and gave Nezer no rest.

At first he had dreaded discovery and dreamed of hanging, but inside of two days, a persistent course of thoroughwort, catnip, opodeldoc and lobelia, again varied by hot applications of burdock leaves and pepper tea, had made prison seem a blessed escape from trouble, and vinegar taste sweet.

By this time Nezer was sick in earnest, and Aunt Comfort, somewhat scared, sent for Dr. Sol. He examined him, and after Aunt Comfort had recounted the remedies she had tried, he laughed.

"You've both had a good time, I guess," he said, "and the boy won't soon forget it, but there's nothing the matter with him."

Aunt Comfort was not convinced, however, and though Nezer began to eat again, she watched him continuously for more symptoms, and his dread returned.

For some years it had been Angie's custom to devote a few Saturday afternoons to out-door excursions, usually taking Nezer along for company and protection. In spring they went after arbutus, cowslips, water-cress, and later for strawberries and other summer fruits. In autumn, when the woods were brown and golden, nut-gathering was the incentive, and then Nezer was indispensable. They had been out twice since Martin had gone away, and now when Saturday came again, she took Nezer and started once more, and never was the boy more grateful for the chance. To him—in spite of his mischievous nature—Angie was the one person whom he most adored—almost a goddess, at whose shrine he worshipped. He had by this time become so reduced in spirits—thanks to "arbs"—that he felt the absolute need of making some one his confidante. He had, in fact, kept his awful secret as long as possible, and to no one but Angie would he or could he dare confess it. Like the young Indian he was, however, he always approached all things by circuitous routes, and when they were well away from the village this autumn afternoon, and while poking away the rustling leaves in search of nuts, he began.

"Do you s'pose 'twas a ghost as scared old David the night he runned away?" he asked.

"Why, no," answered Angie, curious at once, and knowing Nezer never asked a question without an object, "there are no such things as ghosts."

"Wus it Amzi come back 'n' peekin' in, do ye think?"

"No, that isn't possible," came the sober answer.

"Wus it 'n' Injun, do ye s'pose?"

"There are no Indians about here," responded Angie, with aroused suspicions, and looking sharply at Nezer.

"It might have been a bad boy, I know, dressed up as an Indian. Who do you think it was?"

Nezer, kneeling on the ground, looked furtively up at Angie, and then suddenly became absorbed in his search for nuts.

"I dunno who 'twas," he said, "thout 'twas a ghost. Folks say 'twas, 'n' the mill is haunted; I wouldn't go thar arter dark, would you?"

Angie, knowing Nezer full well, made no response, feeling sure some admission would follow if she waited. For a few moments he pawed away at the rustling leaves, and then looked up at Angie again.

"Say, Angie," he said, "won't ye never tell nobody if I tell ye suthin'?"

"No, Nezer," she answered seriously.

"Hope ter die?"

"Hope to die."

"Hope the buggers 'll carry ye off if ye do?"

"Hope they will."

Then Nezer, having thus sealed her lips, arose.

"Come with me," he said, "n' I'll show you suthin'," and he led the way into the woods.

For a quarter mile Angie followed him into the forest, until a dark thicket of hemlocks, choked with boulders, was entered, and here he dropped prone to earth beside one, and reaching into a crevasse beneath it, drew forth a bundle, and, undoing it, held up the hideous mask and head-dress of "Scar Face."

"And so you are responsible for this awful happening," she said, as sternly as she could. "Now I know what has ailed you for a week, and I am glad Auntie gave you lobelia; you deserved worse medicine."

"I s'pose they'd put me in jail if 'twas found out," he said, as he hid the mask again, and led the way out of the woods. "You don't think they'd hang me, do ye, Angie?"

This time Angie had to laugh.

"Now tell me all about it, Nezer," she said.

"I've promised to keep your secret, and I will." And when the border of the woods was reached, she sat on the leaf-carpeted ground and listened for an hour to Nezer's recital of his exploit.

And of the two, it is certain he enjoyed the telling the more.

"It was an awful thing to do, Nezer," Angie asserted when the tale was told, "and I'm glad it isn't on my conscience; if you don't quit moping around the way you have, however, and act natural, all Greenvale will guess your secret before long."

But Nezer was cured already, and when the lowering sun had started them homeward, he was almost hilarious in his joy. On their way they passed Martin's fish-pond, and here a surprise awaited Angie, for the long, narrow lakelet lay smiling and gently rippled in the autumn breeze, a thin sheet of water poured over the well-built dam, and beside the pond, and sheltered by a tree-crowned hillock, stood a tiny cottage with wide veranda.

"WHAT DO YOU MEAN?"

"It's fer old Cy," explained Nezer, with almost the delight of possession. "Hiln's so old an' tumble-down, Martin built this fer him ter watch the pond. so us boys wouldn't be ketchin' the trout. I wouldn't," he added, with astonishing frankness, "fer I ketched more'n 200 on 'em ter put in, 'n' got ten cents apiece."

It was evident Martin had won Nezer's heart, and as Angie peeped into the pretty cottage, with its two rooms below and open fireplace in the front one, and thought what a palace it would seem to old Cy after his present hovel, somehow her heart felt heavy. He who had built this, out of kindly feeling for old Cy, was once her girlish lover, and would be now again if she so willed.

But it must not be—her resolution was made—her duty plain, and to be followed at all cost to herself or him.

Only a few moments she looked at this labor of love for an almost out-cast old man, and then turned away in silence. Over the hills toward the village she led the way, pausing a moment at the bush-grown graveyard to place a wreath of ground-pine on a sunken mound marked by a low, white stone inscribed "Mother," and then kept on.

And Nezer, following close, and feeling it would be a privilege to kneel and kiss the hem of her calico dress, wondered why her face was sad, and she so silent.

"There is no need to dose Nezer any more," she said to Aunt Comfort that night, "I've found out what ails him! It's a troubled conscience."

CHAPTER XXXVI.

A NEW LIFE.

Martin's feelings, when he began the last day's journey to reach Greenvale again, were about equally divided between dread and anticipation. He had solved the mystery of Amzi's disappearance—a bit of news sure to astonish Greenvale, but of doubtful effect on Angie's peace of mind. He was now in a position to secure justice for her, if she would permit such action, and yet he dreaded to draw the veil aside and tell her what he must. Of his own hopes, and the chance to pose as a benefactor, he gave no thought. His one and only real anticipation was the power he now held with certified facts to compel the contemptible David Curtis to an act of reparation. It was short-lived, for as Martin, the better to enjoy the scenery and learn the latest news from Greenvale, rode away with the driver, on his seat, that worthy waited not to be asked what it was.

"I s'pose," he said, "ye hain't heard how old Dave Curtis was found dead up in Mizzy swamp, hev ye?"

"Good Lord, is that so?" gasped the astonished Martin.

"Wal, 'tis fer a fact," came the answer, in a tone that showed how David stood in the driver's estimation.

"He wus took with another fit the night of Hallowe'en, and lit out with nothin' but his shirt on. We found the cuss up in Mizzy swamp three days arter, stone dead, 'n' stark naked. He was middlin' well done up, too, by briers 'n' fallin' over rocks, we called, but thar wa'n't no tears shed on that account 'n' no mournin' when we planted him, as fur as I kin larn. The mills is both shut down now, 'n' Angie gits all the property, I s'pose."

"But what drove him out that night," responded Martin, having Nezer in mind; "did he see another ghost?"

"Wal, he callate he did, 'n' that's what must hev skeered him. Thar's been curus things goin' on 'bout his premises the last three months, 'n' a good many b'lieve they're haunted by Amzi's ghost. It's my private 'pinion though, that old Dave's conscience had been worryin' him lately since you come back. I've heard," he continued, glancing at Martin, and anxious for information, "that you've bought the Mizzy property and was like to begin legal proceedings fer Angie; leastwise that's the story."

Martin smiled at this truly Yankee method of obtaining news.

"I did obtain an option on the property," he responded. "But as for bringing any legal action, I've never said I should. I was willing to buy the Mizzy power and land, however, and pay David's price."

"Wal, mebbe that won't be necessary now," with another inquisitive glance; "they're all comin' to Angie now, 'n' 'n', we all callate it'll be plain sailin' now fur you."

But Martin made no response to this decidedly pointed assertion, and little did that Yankee stage driver realize how far away from "plain sailing" Martin's future course seemed to him. He had returned to Greenvale prepared to astonish the natives, confound David Curtis, and save Angie her heritage, only to find that the Great Reaper had robbed him of his opportunity. For David, he felt not one grain of pity or regret, and as for Angie, his first thought was—was it now wisest or best to disclose the fact of her father's existence at all? It was but momentary, for come what might, it was Martin's fixed faith that all concealments would prove unwise in the end. His first plan had been to go to Angie as soon as possible after he arrived, and tell her all. She, first and foremost, should hear it. He dreaded the telling, however, for many reasons. Then its result on Angie's peace of mind and future was an all-important matter, and his own hopes as well.

For half the slow journey to Greenvale, Martin listened to the driver's repetition of all the gruesome facts of David's fate, including the gossip that followed it, with interest, and then, more absorbed in his own vexations, paid scant heed until the doctor's home was reached.

A cordial welcome here and a good supper restored him somewhat, and after an hour of patient listening to the doctor's version of the all-important news, and still retaining his own, he rose and declared his intention of calling upon Angie.

"Oh, by all means," laughed the doctor, "and I wish you success. If you didn't pop the question before you left, you ought to to-night, and matters between you must be settled soon, as I need your advice regarding her estate. I am appointed administrator and have awaited your return before doing anything."

It was a pleasant send-off, but a proposal of marriage was farthest from Martin's thoughts just now.

It was late when he reached Aunt Comfort's, and she and Angie, always awaiting each other's wish to retire, were alone in the sitting room. The evening, a typical November one, was chilly, the stars obscured, and a cold wind rustled the brown leaves about the ancient dwelling. Angie, too, was in much the same mood as the night, and for many reasons that need not be specified, and the slow-ticking clock and low-burning fire, merely accented her feelings. Life had for many years been without much color for her, and lately, less so than ever.

And then came a knock, and he who had been absent for two long months, but oft present in her thoughts, met her when she opened the door.

His greeting, also, seemed unduly constrained and formal, and after shaking hands with Aunt Comfort, and inquiring after her health, he drew his chair to the fire and a pause came.

It is always a problem how either good or bad news can best be conveyed to its recipient, and poor Martin, after many days of worriment and dread, was now facing such. And the one person in all the world now dearest to his heart was the one most interested. For a few moments he watched the smouldering fire, the two ladies growing more curious each instant, and then he turned to them.

"You must pardon my abstraction," he said, "but I've only just arrived, and have brought you some strange news that will seem incredible, and I hardly know how to tell it. The stage driver has told me all that has happened here, but you two are first to be told what I have learned."

He paused a moment, looking first at Aunt Comfort, now wide eyed with astonishment, then at Angie, even more so, and then continued:

"It's not bad news I bring you, and yet not as good as I could wish. You remember the old hermit I told you about, Angie; well, he is—he is still there and quite content and happy, and improving some. In fact, I found him more rational, and I left old Cy to care for him this winter. It was fixing up his cabin that has kept me so long in the woods."

Once more Martin paused, for the dread secret wouldn't out, and a look of almost terror had come to Angie.

"He is all right," continued poor Martin again, conscious he was floundering, and feeling his throat growing husky, "and was—and was glad to hear from us all, and—and to see your picture."

And now ensued a dramatic scene, for Angie was on her feet instantly, with hands clasped and eyes dilated.

"What do you mean—who is he?" she almost screamed.

NOTE.—The following article has been widely published and is one of the most remarkable illustrations of the value of careful marshalling and analysis of facts in presenting a subject to the public.

LEVELERS

The Mission of Whiskey, Tobacco and Coffee.

The Creator made all things, we believe. If so, He must have made these.

We know what He made food and water for, and air and sunshine, but why Whiskey, Tobacco and Coffee?

They are here sure enough and each performing its work.

There must be some great plan behind it all; the thoughtful man seeks to understand something of that plan and thereby to judge these articles for their true worth.

Let us not say "bad" or "good" without taking testimony.

There are times and conditions when it certainly seems to the casual observer that these stimulant narcotics are real blessings.

Right there is the ambush that conceals a "killing" enemy.

One can slip into the habit of either whiskey, tobacco or coffee easy enough, but to "untangle" is often a fearful struggle.

It seems plain that there are circumstances when the narcotic effect of these poisons is for the moment beneficial, but the fearful argument against them is that seldom ever does one find a steady user of either whiskey, coffee or tobacco free from disease of some kind.

Certainly powerful elements in their effect on the human race.

It is a matter of daily history testified to by literally millions of people that Whiskey, Tobacco and Coffee are smiling, promising, beguiling friends on the start, but always false as hell itself in the end. Once they get firm hold enough to show their strength, they insist upon governing and drive the victim steadily towards ill health in some form; if permitted to continue to rule, they will not let up until physical and mental ruin sets in.

A man under that spell (and "under the spell" is correct) of any one of these drugs frequently assures himself and his friends: "Why, I can leave off any time I want to. I did quit for a week just to show I could." It is a sure mark of the slave when one gets to that stage. He wiggled through a week fighting every day to break the spell, was finally whipped and began his slavery all over again.

The slave (Coffee slave as well as Tobacco and Whiskey) daily reviews his condition, sees perfectly plain the steady encroachments of disease, how the nerves get weaker day by day and demand the drug that seems to smile and offer relief for a few minutes and then leave the diseased condition plainer to view than ever and growing worse. Many times the Coffee slave realizes that he is between two fires. He feels bad if he leaves off and a little worse if he drinks and allows the effect to wear off.

So it goes on from day to day. Every night the struggling victim promises himself that he will break the habit and next day when he feels a little bad (as he is quite sure to) breaks, not the habit, but his own resolution. It is nearly always a tough fight, with disaster ahead sure if the habit wins.

There have been hundreds of thousands of people driven to their graves through disease brought on by coffee drinking alone, and it is quite certain that more human misery is caused by coffee and tobacco than by whiskey, for the two first are more widely used, and more hidden and insidious in the effect on nerves, heart and other vital organs, and are thus unsuspected until much of the dangerous work is done.

Now, Reader, what is your opinion as to the real use the Creator has for these things? Take a look at the question from this point of view.

There is a law of Nature and of Nature's God that things slowly evolve from lower planes to higher, a sturdy, steady and dignified advance toward more perfect things in both the Physical and Spiritual world. The ponderous tread of evolutionary development is fixed by the Infinite and will not be quickened out of natural law by any of man's methods.

Therefore we see many illustrations showing how nature checks too rapid advance. Illinois raises phenomenal crops of corn for two or three years. If she continued to do so every year her farmers would advance in wealth far beyond those of other sections or countries. So Nature interposes a bar every three or four years and brings on a "bad year."

Here we see the leveling influence at work.

A man is prosperous in his business for a number of years and grows rich. Then Nature sets the "leveling influence" at work on him. Some of his investments lose, he becomes luxurious and lazy. Perhaps it is whiskey, tobacco, coffee, women, gambling, or some other form. The intent and purpose is to level him. Keep him from evolving too far ahead of the masses.

A nation becomes prosperous and great like ancient Rome. If no leveling influence set in she would dominate the world perhaps for all time. But Dame Nature sets her army of "levelers" at work. Luxury, over-eating and drinking, licentiousness, waste and extravagance, indulgences of all kinds, then comes the wreck. Sure, Sure, Sure.

The law of the unit is the law of the mass. Man goes through the same process. Weakness (in childhood), gradual growth of strength, energy, thrift, probity, prosperity, wealth, comfort, ease, relaxation, self-indulgence, luxury, idleness, waste, debauchery, disease, and the wreck follows. The "levelers" are in the bushes along the pathway of every successful man and woman and they bag the majority.

Only now and then can a man stand out against these "levelers" and hold his fortune, fame and health to the end.

So the Creator has use for Whiskey, Tobacco and Coffee to level down the successful ones and those who show signs of being successful, and keep them back in the race, so that the great "field" (the masses) may not be left too far behind.

And yet we must admit that same all-wise Creator has placed it in the power of man to stand upright, clothed in the armor of a clean cut steady mind and say unto himself, "I decline to exchange my birthright for a mess of pottage."

"I will not deaden my senses, weaken my grip on affairs and keep myself cheap, common and behind in fortune and fame by drugging with whiskey, tobacco or coffee, life is too short. It is hard enough to win the good things, without any sort of handicap, so a man is certainly a 'fool trader' when he trades strength, health, money, and the good things that come with power, for the half-asleep condition of the 'drugg' with the certainty of sickness and disease ahead."

It is a matter each individual must decide for himself. He can be a leader and semi-god if he will, or he can go along through life a drugged clown, a cheap "hewer of wood or carrier of water."

Certain it is that while the Great Father of us all does not seem to "mind" if some of his children are foolish and stupid, he seems to select others (perhaps those he intends for some special work) and allows them to be threshed and castigated most fearfully by these "levelers."

If a man tries flirting with these levelers awhile, and gets a few slaps as a hint, he had better take the hint or a good solid blow will follow.

When a man tries to live upright, clean, thrifty, sober, and undrugged, manifesting as near as he knows what the Creator intends he should, happiness, health and peace seem to come to him. Does it pay?

This article was written to set people thinking, to rouse the "God within" for every highly organized man and woman has times when they feel a something calling from within for them to press to the front and "be about the Father's business," don't mistake it; the spark of the Infinite is there and it pays in every way, health, happiness, peace, and even worldly prosperity, to break off the habits and strip clean for the work cut out for us.

It has been the business of the writer to provide a practical and easy way for people to break away from the coffee habit and be assured of a return to health and all of the good things that brings, provided the abuse has not gone too far, and even then the cases where the body has been rebuilt on a basis of strength and health run into the thousands.

It is an easy and comfortable step to stop coffee instantly by having well-made Postum Food Coffee served rich and hot with good cream, for the color and flavor is there, but none of the caffeine or other nerve-destroying elements of ordinary coffee.

On the contrary the most powerful rebuilding elements furnished by Nature are in Postum and they quickly set about repairing the damage. Seldom is it more than 2 days after the change is made before the old stomach or bowel troubles or complaints of kidneys, heart, head or nerves show unmistakable evidence of getting better and ten days time changes things wonderfully.

Literally millions of brain-working Americans today use Postum, having found the value and common sense in the change.

TALKS WITHOUT TONGUE.

Robbed of Organ by Surgical Operation, New Jersey Man Articulates Better Than Before.

Tongueless, yet able to talk better than when in possession of his organ of speech—that is the remarkable condition of William Bunting, a wealthy bachelor of Elmer, N. J., who received treatment recently in Philadelphia.

Mr. Bunting came to the Hahnemann hospital to have his throat treated for what he believed to be inflammation caused by a severe cold. Upon investigation the doctors found the disease to be much more serious than the patient had suspected, and that in order to save his life his tongue must be removed. It was swollen to twice its normal size, so that Mr. Bunting was unable to articulate plainly.

After the operation the first words the patient spoke, "Is it all over?" were the plainest he had spoken since his trouble began, several years ago. Those in attendance were able to understand everything he said.

Wrong Department.

A prominent physician tells this story at the expense of the modern craze for specialization in the medical profession. A poor woman went to a dispensary to ask for aid for her little son, who had had one of his fingers smashed. At the first room where she applied she was told by a curt attendant that the boy could not be treated there.

"Wrong place," he explained, "this is the eye and ear department."

"Here is der thumb and finger department?" inquired the woman, simply.—Tit-Bits.

Where the Sin Lay.

A rather plain lady asked the opinion of her minister: "Is it a sin to feel a trifle of vanity when I am called handsome by a gentleman?"

"Not a sin for you, my child, but a terrible responsibility hangs upon the gentleman."—Tit-Bits.

THE FIGHTING CEASES.

Rains and Bad Roads Stop Operations in Manchuria.

The Number of Japanese Killed During the Fighting at Port Arthur Is Placed at 50,000—Reckless Attacks.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 21.—Apart from skirmishes and exploits of scouting parties there is almost a complete suspension of operations in Manchuria. The heavens have interposed to put a stop to bloodshed. Rain, impassable roads and exhausted armies are factors sufficient in themselves to explain the cessation of hostilities, and these conditions are aggravated by a dense fog overspreading the whole of the theater of war. Behind this pall either side would be able to change the disposition of whole forces in absolute secrecy; but the obscurity renders absolutely dangerous any attempt at a forward movement. When the curtain of mist is lifted the fighting may be resumed under totally changed conditions.

Che Foo, Oct. 21.—According to a camp follower, who has been for some time with the Japanese army now besieging Port Arthur and who is at present in Che Foo, having arrived from Dalny, the number of Japanese killed before the forts has reached 50,000. He says the mikado's men recklessly attacked the strongest positions, making wild rushes in masses, the soldiers being stripped of their accoutrements and clothing. The result was that the Russian machine guns mowed them down. He also asserts that there is some talk among the officers and men that leads to the belief that the Japanese mean to try to carry the inner forts and citadel this month.

New York, Oct. 24.—So far as the dispatches from the far east show there has been no change in the relative positions of the hostile armies confronting each other on the line of the Shakhe river. There is an unconfirmed report that a Russian force of 20,000 men has been concentrated at Kauts Pass, 20 miles northeast of Liao Yang, which may be indicative of the direction in which Gen. Kuropatkin is likely to strike his next blow. Cold weather is causing suffering to the armies in the field, although it has wrought an improvement in the conditions for the movement of troops. A report has reached St. Petersburg, but lacks confirmation, that the Port Arthur fleet has left its anchorage in the harbor and has taken up a position in the roadstead.

Tokio, Oct. 24.—Manchurian headquarters reporting by telegraph says that the number of Russian dead found on the battlefield and interred up to October 22 makes a total of 10,550. Upon this total Russian casualties are estimated to exceed 60,000. The Japanese captured a total of 45 guns during the Shakhe operations. The report of the Manchurian headquarters follows:

"The enumerated spoils, etc., of the battle of Shakhe follows: Prisoners, about 500; enemy's dead left on the field, 10,550; 45 guns, 37 ammunition wagons, 6,920 shells, 5,474 rifles, 78,000 small arms, ammunition, number of swords, shovels, axes and tents. Beside the enumerated property the unaccounted property, extending over 25 miles, will reach an enormous quantity.

"The enemy's dead is being interred with military honors."

KILLED HIM AT LAST.

A Traveling Man Fatally Shot By His Wife.

Arcadia, Miss., Oct. 24.—R. I. Fezzell, a traveling man, was fatally shot Sunday by his wife shortly after recovering from a previous murderous assault by her. Mrs. Fezzell attempted her husband's life first upon being accused of improper relations with another man. She then sued for a divorce. Saturday in the presence of their son she killed her husband.

He Smothered the Babe.

Galveston, Tex., Oct. 24.—Because he objected to taking care of his baby brother, who was left in his charge, Thomas Jefferson Jones, a colored six-year-old boy, suffocated the infant by piling upon it a large quantity of bed clothing.

Dumont's New Balloon.

Paris, Oct. 24.—M. Santos-Dumont is constructing his 13th balloon. It is intended to remain aloft for several days, the leakage of gas being compensated for by a smaller inner balloon inflated by steam. The car is to hold four passengers.

Fair Will Be Open on Sunday.

Portland, Ore., Oct. 24.—The Lewis and Clark exposition grounds will be kept open on Sunday afternoons but the buildings, with one exception, are to remain closed. The fair will be kept open, however, under certain restrictions.

Damaged By An Earthquake.

London, Oct. 24.—Dispatches received here from various points report a rather severe earthquake and much damage to property throughout Scandinavia and Denmark Sunday morning. Thus far, however, no fatalities have been reported.

Hon. John Morley Arrives.

New York, Oct. 24.—Rt. Rev. John Morley, the English statesman and author, arrived Sunday on the steamer Celtic. During his stay in this city Mr. Morley will be Andrew Carnegie's guest.

GOING TO STAY YOUNG.

Even Government Inspectors Couldn't Make Her Older Than She Looked.

A Brooklyn woman lately returned from Europe was describing to her husband who had remained at home her experiences with the customs inspectors who had taken her declaration in the cabin of the liner coming up the bay, relates the Brooklyn Eagle. "When he asked me my age," she said, "I told him 30. 'But, my dear,' exclaimed the husband, 'you're over 30.' 'I know it,' she returned, 'but do I look more?' 'No, you don't; that's a fact.' 'Well,' she concluded, triumphantly, 'convicted that mere man was squelched once more by the force of feminine logic, until I look more than 30 I'm going to be 30, and I don't care for the old United States government and all its customs inspectors and declarations. They can't make me older than I look or want to be.'"

Six Doctors Failed.

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 24 (Special).—After suffering from Kidney Disease for three years; after taking treatment from six different doctors without getting relief, Mr. J. O. Laudeman, of this place, found not only relief but a speedy and complete cure in Dodd's Kidney Pills. Speaking of his cure, Mr. Laudeman says: "Yes, I suffered from Kidney Trouble for three years and tried six doctors to no good. Then I took just two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and they not only cured my kidneys, but gave me better health in general. Of course I recommended Dodd's Kidney Pills to others and I know a number now who are using them with good results." Mr. Laudeman's case is not an exception. Thousands give similar experiences. For there never yet was a case of Kidney Trouble from Backache to Bright's Disease that Dodd's Kidney Pills could not cure. They are the only remedy that ever cured Bright's Disease.

A VOICE FROM THE PULPIT.

Rev. Jacob D. Van Doren, of 57 Sixth street, Fond Du Lac, Wis., Presbyterian clergyman, says: "I had attacks of kidney disorders which kept me in the house for days at a time, unable to do anything. What I suffered can hardly be told. Complications set in, the particulars of which I will be pleased to give in a personal interview to any one who requires information. This I can conscientiously say, Doan's Kidney Pills caused a general improvement in my health. They brought great relief by lessening the pain and correcting the action of the kidney secretions."

Miss Nettie Blackmore, Minneapolis, tells how any young woman may be permanently cured of monthly pains by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"YOUNG WOMEN:—I had frequent headaches of a severe nature, dark spots before my eyes, and at my menstrual periods I suffered untold agony. A member of the lodge advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, but I only scorned good advice and felt that my case was hopeless, but she kept at me until I bought a bottle and started taking it. I soon had the best reason in the world to change my opinion of the medicine, as each day my health improved, and finally I was entirely without pain at my menstruation periods. I am most grateful."—NETTIE BLACKMORE, 28 Central Ave., Minneapolis, Minn.

Painful Periods

are quickly and permanently overcome by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The above letter is only one of hundreds of thousands which prove this statement to be a fact. Menstruation is a severe strain on a woman's vitality, if it is painful something is wrong. Don't take narcotics to deaden the pain, but remove the cause—perhaps it is caused by irregularity or womb displacements, or the development of a tumor. Whatever it is, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is guaranteed to cure it.

If there is anything about your case about which you would like special advice, write freely to Mrs. Pinkham. She will treat your letter as strictly confidential. She can surely help you, for no person in America can speak from a wider experience in treating female ills. She has helped hundreds of thousands of women back to health. Her address is Lynn, Mass., and her advice is free. You are very foolish if you do not accept her kind invitation.

Details of Another Case.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Ignorance and carelessness is the cause of most of the sufferings of women. I believe that if we properly understood the laws of health we would all be well, but if the sick women only knew the truth about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, they would be saved much suffering and would soon be cured."

"I used it for five months for a local difficulty which had troubled me for years, and for which I had spent hundreds of dollars in the vain endeavor to rectify. My life forces were being sapped, and I was daily losing my vitality."

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me completely, and I am now enjoying the best of health, and am most grateful, and only too pleased to endorse such a great remedy."—MISS JENNIE L. EDWARDS, 604 H St., N. W., Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Pinkham, whose address is Lynn, Mass., will answer cheerfully and without cost all letters addressed to her by sick women.

W. L. DOUGLAS
$2.50 SHOES
W. L. Douglas makes and sells more men's $3.50 shoes than any other manufacturer in the world.

The reason W. L. Douglas shoes are the greatest sellers in the world is because of their excellent style, easy fitting and superior wearing qualities. If I could show you the difference between the shoes made in my factory and those of other makers and the high-grade leather used, you would understand why W. L. Douglas shoes cost more to make, why they hold their shape, fit better, last longer, and are of greater intrinsic value than any other $3.50 shoe on the market to-day, and why the sales for the year ending July 1, 1904, were $6,263,040.00.

W. L. Douglas guarantees their value by stamping his name and price on the bottom. Look for it—take no substitute. Sold by shoe dealers everywhere.

SUPERIOR IN FIT, COMFORT AND WEAR.

"I have worn W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes for the last twelve years with absolute satisfaction. I find them superior in fit, comfort and wear to others costing from $3.00 to $7.00."—J. S. McVitt, Dept. Vol. Co. St. Int. Revenue, Brooklyn, Pa.

HERE is the most wonderful
Heater the world has ever known.

The reason why the Buck's Hot Blast is the most wonderful heater in the world is because it is so constructed that it turns into fuel and burns the 38 per cent. of gas in soft coal instead of permitting it to escape through the chimney, as other heaters do. In a Buck's Hot Blast 1 1/4 tons of soft coal or slack will produce as much heat as one ton of anthracite or hard coal. So you can easily figure where one of these wonderful heaters will pay for itself in one or two season.

There is absolutely no Smoke, no Gas, no Soot, it is all burned up as fuel.

If you will let us demonstrate these claims to you there will be no question about your buying a

AMUSEMENTS.

"A Royal Slave" is one of the most elaborate and beautifully melodramatic productions on the road. The scenery is the finest that the studios can furnish and is printed from photographs made in Mexico. The costumes and stage accessories are very rich and the powerful and thrilling dramatic situations, make the play a series of beautiful stage pictures. Though it is a melodrama of the sensational sort, there is not a shot fired during the entire play, and it is possessed of real literary and dramatic merit of a high order.

It is something to be able to say that at least we can herald the coming of a new play, full of new ideas, situations and startling effects. Such is true, however, of the forthcoming of "A Royal Slave," which is put on in a most artistic manner, complete in every detail. The play will be seen at the Grand next Wednesday night, Oct. 26. Sale of seats goes on Monday, Oct. 24, at Vanden's Drug Store. Prices, 25, 35, 50 and 75 cents.

It will be of interest to the theatre going public of Paris to know that this place will soon be visited by that old classical drama "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde." This play deals with the double life of one "Dr. Jekyll," and tells the strange and wonderful tale of his transformation from the respectable, refined and generous hearted doctor to the repulsive looking, hideous, dwarfed fiend. This play, although an old one is still recognized as one of the finest classical works, and is rated in literature as an equal almost to the Shakespearean drama. The company producing "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" here is a capable one, each member being picked especially for his or her part, in this wonderful play, which is still to-day the masterpiece of Richard Mansfield.

They have the most unique and original scenic effects that has yet been seen. As they are playing a few one night stands in this section of the country it is expected that every one will try and see that famous old play, "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."
